Performance Notes

The dual time signature (6/8, 3/4) of A Light in Darkness indicates the lilt of a Renaissance dance tune: formal yet sprightly. Take it quickly and briskly enough to not be ponderous, but at a tempo that will allow the text to be sung clearly.

The text is dense with images that can be “unpacked” on repetition. Since the fourth verse recapitulates the first three and ties all the images together, it is recommended that all four verses be sung.

We live in the tension between God’s reign now and God’s reign not yet. A Light in Darkness is appropriate during Lent, for communal celebrations of reconciliation, funerals, the Anointing of the Sick and in times of individual or community hardship—as quiet encouragement and a call to enduring faith.
